Stockholm, April 4. Yeſterday being the Day appointed for the Publick Declaration of the Prince Royal's intended Marriage with the Princeſs of Denmark, the Deputies of the States went in Proceſſion to Court at Noon, to make their Compliments on the Occaſion; and, as ſoon as that was over, the Foreign Miniſters were admitted to make Theirs. About half an Hour after One, the King, Queen, and Two eldeſt Princes, dined in Publick; at which Ceremony the Foreign Miniſters likewiſe attended, and were afterwards entertained at Dinner along with the Senators and other Perſons of Diſtinction.

The Deputies of the States alſo dined at Court, every Order having a ſeparate Table; and the Number of Perſons entertained on this Occaſion amounted to between Five and Six Hundred. The whole was concluded by a Ball at Court in the Evening.

The Report which had been ſpread, as if the new Dey of Algiers had declared War againſt Sweden, and ſent their Conſul away, proves to be falſe, and it is contradicted in a Paragraph publiſhed by Authority in the Swediſh Gazette of Yeſterday.
